

COSMICAL ASPECTS IN VIEWS OF CHILDRENS IN CONTEMPORARY MEDIA

Cosmical aspects in views of children in the modern media, daily newspapers and television are examined, with the aim that children as an equal part of the universe get an adequate treatment in the present means of mass media. It is shown clearly that without substantial respect of the personality and rights of the child, there is no a healthy, moral, and modern society. In most articles in the print media, and contributions in electronic media the rights of the child are not respected; and relatively few is pointed to the need to introduce children and young people with important astrophysical phenomena and cognitive issues.